

Residence-specific wind-field exposure

Hurricane Michael track and 34-kt quadrant wind field at Florida landfall, October 10, 2018

Residence points are simulated and do not represent actual birth addresses.
The shaded area illustrates the spatial component of exposure; analytic exposure also requires the local-impact window to overlap the pregnancy risk period.